CRAM is an interdisciplinary talk series aimed at showcasing the exemplary diversity of cognitive researchers in the department and broader Montreal community. We encourage talks that connect cognitive science with other disciplines and strive to promote engagement, inclusion, and collaboration among our community of critical thinkers.

To receive day-of updates about CRAM and information about other cognition-related talks at McGill, please consider joining the coggroup list serve: <http://mx0.psych.mcgill.ca/mailman/listinfo/coggroup>
